FOR EARLY PUBLICATION

James Martineau. A Study and a Biography

By Rev. A. W. JACKSON. With portraits. 8vo, $3.00

The author of this important volume has devoted a large amount of study and care to its preparation and had about brought his work to a conclusion when the death of James Martineau was announced. As a record, not only of one of the prominent men of the 19th century, but of a great and far-reaching theological movement, the book is a remarkable one, a faithful study of a movement in thought of which Martineau was the leader. The work has been read and approved by Dr. Martineau's nearest relatives, who have given the author valuable assistance.

A Life of Francis Parkman

By CHARLES HAIGHT FARNHAM. With portraits. 8vo, $2.50

The author of this work knew Mr. Parkman, and his work has been done with the sanction of the historian's nearest relatives, and with their assistance as far as information of a personal character is concerned. He has devoted much study and labor to the preparation of his work and has had access to all the available material in the hands of Mr. Parkman's family and friends, including such letters as have been preserved, the diary of his vacation journals, and his extremely interesting autobiographic letters written by the historian to his friends, Dr. George H. Ellis and Martin Brimmer.

The book is divided into three parts: (1) Parkman's preparation, (2) The reflection of his personality in his works, and (3) The story of his moral growth.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HENRY HOLT & Co. announce that Professor James's "Talks to Teachers on Psychology and to Students On Some of Life's Ideals" has just gone to press for the eighth time.

JOHN MURPHY Co., Baltimore, has just ready "World-Crisis in China," by Allen S.
Will of the Baltimore Sun, with maps of China showing scenes of conflict, also railroads of China and trans-Siberia, said to be the first book that deals wholly with the present situation.

DAVID MCKAY wishes to inform the trade that he has just purchased "Nests and Eggs of North American Birds," by Oliver Davie.
It will be issued at once in uniform style of binding with his "Methods in the Art of Taxidermy" that has just been put on the market in new and attractive style.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. announce a beautiful handy edition of the "Life of Dante," by E.
H. Plumptre, Dean of Wells, edited by Arthur John Butler, which will be ready in the early autumn. The edition is bound in limp leather. Dean Plumptre's notes on Dante's works are the most valuable we have and this little volume will be welcomed by all lovers of the great poet.

DANIEL B. BRIGGS, Utica, N. Y., has just ready "Words That Burn," a twentieth century novel by Lida Briggs Browne, telling of a proud English father who turns against his daughter for marrying a young American business man, and utters the "words that burn" in after life. The scene shifts from the south of France to New York and Colorado and many of the newer theories of life of the men and women of the present day are carefully discussed in the book.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have issued "A History of Political Parties in the United States," by James H. Hopkins, formerly Representative from Pennsylvania, being an account of the political parties since the foundation of the government, and a reprint of the several party platforms. This house has also ready "A Book for All Readers," by Ainsworth Rand Spofford, designed as an aid to the collection, use, and preservation of books and the formation of public and private libraries; and "Richelieu," by James Breck Perkins, has been added to Heroes of the Nations Series.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish to-day
"A School History of England," by J. N.
Larned, with 18 maps and upwards of 150 illustrations, and also with topics, and reference and research questions, by H. P. Lewis of the English High School, Worcester, Mass.; "English: Composition and Literature," by W. F. Webster, Principal of the East High School, Minneapolis, Minn.; a school edition of Olive Thorne Miller's "First Book of Birds," intended specially for children;
and "The Book of Legends," by Horace E.
Scudder, the new volume in the Riverside Literature Series.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will issue shortly
"James Martineau: a study and biography," by Rev. A. W. Jackson, a work that has been read and approved by Dr. Martineau's nearest relatives who have given the author valuable assistance. The book is a faithful study of a movement in religious thought in which Martineau was the leader, which was almost ready for publication when Dr. Martineau died on the 12th of January last. Another valuable biography is Charles Haight Farnham's "Life of Francis Parkman" in which he has also had the assistance of the historian's family and friends.

GEORGE M. HILL COMPANY, Chicago, have some very attractive and wonderfully successful juveniles to be published September 1.
"The Wonderful Wizard of Oz," with words
by L. Frank Baum and illustrations by W. W.
Denslow exhausted its first edition of 10,000 copies before appearing in the market. The same author and picture artists are responsible for "The Army Alphabet" and "The Navy Alphabet"; also for "Father Goose: His Book" and "The Songs of Father Goose," now selling better than ever. The books are all printed in colors and handsome posters are furnished free to booksellers.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

BRESLAUER & MEYER, Berlin, in honor of the 500th anniversary of the birth of Gutenberg have gotten out a handsome catalogue entitled "Ein Katalog Seltener Bücher und Manuscripte" (Rare Books and Manuscripts), selected from the treasures they have in stock. It is handsomely printed with about 55 illustrations, many of them full-page, reproduced from priceless books. Among the chief treasures listed in the 585 titles are Aldines, Americana, especially old geography and travels; books of the 16th, 17th, 18th centuries; books with beautiful wood-cut borders; collections of wood-cuts of the 15th and 16th centuries; incunabula; old medicine, educational books of the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries; microscopic prints in books of the smallest sizes; books on wars and duelling, etc.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 25, 1900.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

WHAT MAKES A BOOK SELL?

WHAT makes a book sell? Conscientious workmanship on the part of the author? Public interest in the subject? Favorable, or unfavorable, reviews in the newspapers? Startling and lavish advertising? Attractive get-up? The name of the author, or of the publisher? Endless-chain recommendation by readers? Discussion of its merits at literary circles, or at clubs? All of these no doubt are helps in selling some books, and in the greatest number of cases the last three are among the most important factors. But there is one more factor of great influence, and that factor, though often overlooked, is the intelligent man behind the counter. His influence is as great in large cities as in the smaller towns, where, if he is alive to his opportunities, the bookseller may become a dominant power.

There has been not a little lamentation of late years among book buyers that the bookseller has no longer the literary intelligence that used in olden times to be a characteristic of the followers of his profession. Possibly this is in some measure true: with the reduction of the profits in the business, that scramble to make a bare living, which has necessitated the introduction into bookstores of all sorts of knick-knacks, has diverted to a certain extent from the proper study of their calling many intelligent booksellers, who would gladly devote more time to the study of the books which they handle.

This should not altogether relieve the bookseller from blame, because even under these circumstances he has need to be as well versed as possible in all information which the bookbuyer may desire. As a matter of fact this is the very means for him to hold his trade against the competition of the undersellers whose "help" know nothing about their goods except that "a book's a book." Even in large cities, centres of literary life, there are many persons who are contented to read what their favorite bookseller recommends; who would scarcely feel honest in saving a dime at the underseller's shop, or a quarter by writing to the publishers, at nearly a quarter's worth of trouble, if the bookseller has previously put them under obligations by his readiness and courtesy in furnishing information they have desired. In fact, it is not only to actual purchasers of a book that the bookseller should be glad to furnish information; he should be eager to welcome new faces and to give them all the information possible, even at no immediate pecuniary return. Let a bookseller once earn a reputation for courtesy and an all-round knowledge of his profession, and there will be very little question at least so far as his locality is concerned, as to what makes a book sell!

THE twenty-eighth issue of "The Trade List Annual" is now being shipped. Twenty-nine names appear among its list of contributors that were not represented last year, and the few names missing in the index this year are almost wholly accounted for by business changes and new combinations of interests. Many of the firms have added to the size of their catalogues and the volume has again grown in bulk, this year weighing 16 pounds. The edition is limited and the demand is brisk, betokening a busy fall season for the trade. Orders should be sent without delay.

WE are now at work on the Fall Announcement number of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. As we are making an alphabetical list of author and title, which will be used throughout the Fall by the booksellers, it is specially desirable that all the books in preparation should be properly listed. Publishers should take some pains to get information about even a single book they have in preparation into our hands as soon as possible. Publishers who could not get their lists finished in time for the Trade List Annual can have any titles of forthcoming books carefully listed in the Fall Announcement number, provided they reach us by September 1.

PRINTING BY ELECTRICITY.

THE following account of the discovery of the principle of printing by electricity, to which we referred early in the year, has been furnished to The American Printer by the Electrical Inkless Printing Syndicate of London:

"Printing circles throughout the old world are being stirred to their depths by the report of an invention or discovery—it has more of the latter than of the former—by which the printing of the future is to be done by electricity instead of with the inky pigment hitherto used. This it is plain, is a revolutionary change for which even the great advances in the employment of electricity for trade and manufacturing as well as scientific purposes can scarcely be said to have fully prepared us. It is true there have been some promising attempts to discard the printer and all his works, and to accomplish by photography what has hitherto been done by the disciples of Gutenberg, but one and all of these so-called printing processes, being based on photography, either by the ordinary methods or with the help of the Roentgen-rays, involved the subsequent processes of developing, washing and fixing sheet by sheet, which consumes much valuable time and detracts largely from the economy of an otherwise hopeful scheme. Some workers in this field have relied entirely on chemicals, but as the difficulty of using these in solution at the moment of printing could not be overcome, they have met with no success.

"It soon became obvious that to insure successful results, the basis of any process must take into account the modern process of printing on dry paper, and without any subsequent time-wasting processes of developing and fixing the subject—whether types or blocks. In other words, the print or type must be instantly visible or readable and, above all, permanent.

"This conclusion was not arrived at till after a long series of experiments, all tending in the same direction—toward immediate results on dry paper, as in the letter-press method of printing.

"The foremost worker in the field of inkless printing, W. Friese-Greene, whose researches into scientific photography are well known, finally turned his attention to Professor Stewart's theory of the magnetic-electric action of light on certain sensitive chemicals, and soon proved the correctness of the theory by exhibiting before the Croydon Camera Club a process by which an ordinary type electro was printed on an ordinary platen press in good readable black and as fast as the sheets could be fed into the press. All that was to be seen in the way of apparatus was a wire connecting the press with an eight-candle electric lamp, which furnished the current. The ordinary paper was washed over with a chemical solution, the composition of which was not stated.

"This was the beginning, showing clearly that the problem of printing by electricity without ink was possible. It was received by the scientists present with wonder and astonishment, the more so because no explanation could be given of the phenomena. There was no indication that any change had taken place in the paper—but the result was there, clear, sharp, readable.

"At this point the discovery, which had been patented in all countries, was taken up by interested parties, and the Electrical Inkless Printing Syndicate was formed to develop it into a practical working process. Here fresh troubles commenced. It was found that a certain amount of moisture was absolutely necessary in the paper in order to overcome the electric resistance, and the only chemicals then known could not be incorporated or "fixed" in the paper without this percentage of moisture. More quiet, persistent work in trials and experiments, extending over another eight months, and at last the long-sought combination of new sensitive chemicals was found, and found singularly enough, in waste products of which there is an unbounded supply, and which are therefore so cheap that not the smallest addition will be caused to the price of paper. The nature of the new chemicals is undisclosed, because all the patents applied for are not yet fully secured.

"From what has been already said, it will be seen that the basis of the invention is a paper treated (in the pulp) with a combination of chemicals sensitive to the action of magnetic-electricity. The paper is in appearance the same as that ordinarily used for printing purposes. Its sensitiveness is developed when brought into contact with the electric current, which is done by connecting the usual negative and positive wires to the machine in direct contact with the paper at the instant of impression. For slow presses it is a "make-and-break" contact; for fast rotary presses it is continuous, but in both cases the first supply must be "continuous," not "intermittent," as public supplies usually are. To make the change from "intermittent" to "continuous" an intermediate "converter" is employed.

"When an electric motor is employed to drive the printing press the current may be drawn from it to do the actual printing also. A governor technically known as a "resist" is employed to regulate the flow of current and control the density or depth of color or tint required for the work in hand. Every possible opening for an escape of current is provided against, and there is not the slightest danger of accident to the feeders or damage to the presses. The quantity of current that can be used in no case exceeds four amperes, and in none of the tests made, extending over many months, has more than two amperes per hour been consumed, at an average cost of one and one-half cents per hour. Simple contact with the edges of the sensitized paper is, in fact, all that is required to secure the desired results. Forms go to press in every respect just as they have always done, without any change whatever. No alteration is required in the presses now in use beyond leaving off the rollers and discarding the use of ink duct and distribution table. In fact, the simplicity of the whole thing is its strongest recommendation."

PARCELS-POST PACKAGES.

ALL postmasters have been notified by the Post Office Department that in future parcels-post packages in covers closed by sewing or pasting are admissible to all mails between countries with which there are parcels-post arrangements.

THE FRENCH BOOK TRADE FOR NET PRICES.

Memorial de la Librairie Francaise calls attention to the practical improvement in the English book trade since the spread of the net price system and suggests that the French book trade might profit lastingly by following the example set.

COMMUNICATIONS.

COST OF CONDUCTING A BOOKSTORE IN VIRGINIA—A CORRECTION.

PETERSBURG, VA., August 16, 1900.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The memorandum of estimate as to expense of conducting the book business here was for your information as to absolute net cost of doing business and was not intended for publication. As it stands the item is misleading, because it does not include estimate for dead stock, or reasonable return to owner or proprietor for his services, nor interest upon original capital employed. If all these items are considered our figure is nearer 23 per cent. than 12½ per cent.

T. S. BECKWITH, JR.

COST OF CONDUCTING A RETAIL BOOK BUSINESS.

DAVENPORT, IA., August 18, 1900.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I noticed that in answer to your request some bookseller estimates expense of conducting the book business at 12½ per cent. It does not matter who makes this statement, it is an error. The expense of conducting the book business will not fall any below 25 per cent., and this does not allow a cent of profit to the party running the business.

I think one reason why so many booksellers fail is because they do not allow enough for running the business. One item alone, speaking of dead stock. The book store of to-day is all dead stock except a few of the popular novels.

I think publishers when trying to establish a basis of discounts ought to allow 25 per cent. for expense and then a reasonable margin for profit above this. Hoping that a satisfactory arrangement may be arrived at

I am yours truly,

THOS. THOMPSON,

The Central Book Store.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA., August 17, 1900.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The writer read an article in your recent issue relating to the cost of conducting a retail book business.

The Virginia bookseller either made a very great mistake in calculating the cost; or the matter of intelligent help, rent, and the "hundred and one" expenses connected with the retail business in Virginia must be a much smaller item there than I can conceive of.

Could the gentleman from Virginia give the booksellers at large the benefit of his experience, it would be very beneficial. 12½ per cent. is a very low figure; our experience is that from 22 to 25 per cent. is nearer the facts.

I cannot see that a book costing 90 c. or $1.00 net can be sold at the lowest price, $1.35 or $1.40, and be any more than a reasonable profit, while in fact the best we can do is to sell them at $1.25 as against 89 or 98 cents of the department store. Even at that price we gain a reputation of being a high priced shop. The publishers will have plenty to lose should the legitimate bookseller be driven out of the race, which every year appears more inevitable. Thus far the publishers have not in any way controlled the department store, but in several other lines they have been controlled, and it shows that it would be possible also in the matter of copyrighted books.

Very truly yours,

N. CHATHAM.

COPYRIGHT IN BARRIE'S "LITTLE MINISTER": A CORRECTION.

NEW YORK, August 20, 1900.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: As owners of the American copyright in J. M. Barrie's novel, "The Little Minister," we are obliged to protest emphatically against some misleading statements contained in an item published in the WEEKLY of August 18. This item is a notice of a suit brought in our name against Charles Frohman to restrain the production of a play called "The Little Minister" in which you state that the suit was dismissed because "attorneys for the Publishers' Plate Renting Company, plaintiffs, concluded that Frohman's position was impregnable." That statement is absolutely incorrect. Such a suit was brought and was discontinued by consent—not by reason of any anticipated strength of Mr. Frohman's defense, but for reasons that are not concerned with the validity of the copyrights or the dramatic rights of either of the parties.

You further state that Mr. Frohman "also made the point that while an author may copyright a book, an assignee may not, and that the novel was public property before any steps to copyright it were taken in this country." This statement is equally incorrect. No points whatever were made in the case and there was no decision rendered on any point, as the suit was withdrawn by consent.

"It is not a fact that the novel was common property before any steps to copyright it were taken in this country; and it is not the law that the assignee of an author cannot secure a copyright."

Lest anybody should be misled by the article in question we take this opportunity of saying that we shall proceed in the United States courts to restrain the publication of any pirated or unauthorized edition of this novel and shall prosecute offenders to the full extent of the law.

PUBLISHERS' PLATE RENTING COMPANY.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE long friendship between W. D. Howells and James Russell Lowell is commemorated in the September Scribner's by an article in which Mr. Howells sets down with great frankness and yet with fine delicacy his personal recollections of Mr. Lowell.

EGERTON CASTLE's new novel, which will ultimately be published in book form by the Frederick A. Stokes Company, will first appear in The Delineator, beginning in the November number. It will be entitled "The Secret Orchard," and is a novel of contemporary life, most of the action of which takes place in France.

THE August Century is out of print, as the result of the popular interest in Miss Runkle's historical romance, "The Helmet of Navarre," which begins in this number. As a rule, the critics hesitate to pronounce judgment on a novel when only one installment of it has appeared; but in this case an exception has been made, and a chorus of praise has greeted the new story.

THE second issue of The Cornhill Booklet (Alfred Bartlett, 21 Cornhill, Boston,) is devoted to "Occasional Poems," by Rudyard Kipling, and gives a recent portrait of Kipling from an etching of William Strang, printed on Japan paper and detached for framing or mounting. For September the contents will be "Father Damien; an open letter to the Rev. Dr. Hyde of Honolulu, from Robert Louis Stevenson."

ALFRED BARTLETT, of Boston, the publisher of the new magazine, The Cornhill Booklet, is issuing a little volume of humorous verse, by Mr. R. C. Bowman, under the title, "Freckles and Tan." Mr. Bowman is widely known as the cartoonist of the Minneapolis Tribune, and "Freckles and Tan" is illustrated by himself in his cleverest manner. Both the pictures and the verses are full of the humor of boyhood days. It is a book to laugh over with a friend. Mr. Bartlett's list of artistic "Cornhill Dodgers" is growing rapidly. There are now ready eight of these single page leaflets each bearing a great thought beautifully expressed. Channing's "Symphony" fittingly begins the series.

ONE of the most novel and therefore interesting newspapers published in the far west is the Cherokee Advocate, edited by William T. Loeser, and published at Tahlequah, Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory. The paper, which is issued weekly, contains four pages. Two of these are in English, two in Indian with the letters of the Indian alphabet used. Unfortunately, the Advocate does not furnish a key to the "Indian half" of the paper—which is undoubtedly the better portion—so we are unable to do more than guess at the contents thereof. The Chinese question, the war in the Philippines, and national politics are well handled. The paper is published by the Cherokee Tribe and sells for $1.00 a year.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HERMAN MERIVALE has been granted a civil list pension of £125 by the British Government.

FRANK SANBORN is said to be at work on a book dealing with John Brown and his family and followers.

MAX PEMBERTON has written a romantic novel full of "Russian social and political intrigue" called "The Footsteps of a Throne."

THE CENTURY COMPANY will bring out a new edition of an early and popular book by Roosevelt. It is entitled "Ranch Life and the Hunting Trail," and when first published neither the author's name nor that of the illustrator was given to the public. The new edition will contain upward of ninety-four illustrations by Remington.

To Captain A. T. Mahan of the Royal United Service has been awarded the Chesney gold medal—the first awarded—for "Works bearing upon the Welfare of the Empire," the works specified being "The Influence of Sea Power upon History," "The Influence of Sea Power on the French Revolution and Empire," and "The Life of Nelson."

MISS HELEN HAY, the young daughter of the Secretary of State, is about to publish a new book. It is entitled "The Little Boy Book," and is said to be a collection of humorous verses for children. She is also writing verses for a picture book entitled "Beasts and Birds," by Frank Verbeck, which is to appear in the fall. Miss Hay's first book, entitled "Some Verses," which was published a year or two ago, is a collection of serious poems, some of them in blank verse.

FREDERICK TREVOR HILL, a graduate of Yale and a member of the New York bar in active practice, is perhaps the first American to write a volume of stories of American lawyers and their clients. His work in this new field should be interesting to the many thousands of lawyers throughout the country as well as to the much greater number of those who have had experience as litigants or as jurymen. Mr. Hill's volume is to be entitled "The Case and Exceptions," and is to be brought out by the F. A. Stokes Company in the coming autumn without previous serial publication—although he has had and has declined favorable offers for serial use of many of the stories.

PICK-UPS.

"A GOOD story is told by a contemporary. When the Duke of Edinburgh visited Australia he accepted an invitation to visit a wealthy squatter. Anticipating the visit, the squatter suddenly recollected that the library was unfurnished. He sat down and despatched the following telegram: 'Send one ton of books. Immediate delivery.' The order was executed, and the Duke looked upon a ton of library."—London Literary World.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have secured the American rights for Dr. William Barry's elaborate historical work on "The Papal Monarchy."

HINDS & NOBLE have purchased the plates and copyright of "The Western College Song Book" and will incorporate its best songs in their "Songs of the Western Colleges" which they expect to publish early in the fall.

THE REGAN PRINTING HOUSE, Chicago, has printed for William Hudson Harper, the editor, a book called "Restraint of Trade," giving the pros and cons of trusts in facts and principles; "a handbook for the man who wants to think clear and vote right."

THE copyright of Balzac's novels expired on Saturday, August 18. Messrs. Lévy (Paris), paid 80,000 francs ($16,000) to Balzac's widow for this copyright in 1865 (thirty years after Balzac's death) and for thirty-five years they have enjoyed the monopoly.

M. F. MANSFIELD, N. Y. City, has issued "XXIV Quatrains from Omar," a new paraphrase by F. York Powell of certain of the Persian poets inspired verses. The edition is limited to 750 copies attractively bound in decorative cover from a design by Blanche McManus.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have published the sixth edition revised of "Our Native Ferns and Their Allies," by Lucien Marcus Underwood, who has wholly rewritten and extended the chapter on nomenclature, because the present edition contributes to a modification of generic names.

THE UNION PRESS (American Sunday-School Union,) have brought out a new edition of Agnes Giberne's standard juveniles formerly published by Robert Carter & Brothers. They are entitled "Sweet Briar"; "Floss Silverthorn"; "Duties and Duties"; and "Muriel Bertram."

SILVER, BURDETT & Co. have just ready "American Inventions and Inventors," by William A. Mowry and Arthur May Mowry, with nearly 100 illustrations showing comparisons between old-time methods of heating, lighting, printing, travel, etc., and present methods, portraits of noted inventors, etc.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish a new series of books on nature, intended especially for boys, to be entitled The Library for Young Naturalists and to be edited by F. Afalo. The first volumes will be "British Animals," by the editor; and "Animals of Africa," by H. A. Bryden, the great authority on Africa.

HINDS & NOBLE have added four books to their series of German Texts with footnotes and vocabularies. The series now contains Schiller's "Wilhelm Tell"; Der Neffe als Onkel; "Jungfrau von Orleans"; and "Maria Stuart," and Lessing's "Minna von Barnhelm"; "Nathan der Weise" and "Emilia Galotti"; also Goethe's "Hermann und Dorothea."

WILLIAM T. COMSTOCK, New York City, has just issued a useful book in "Furniture Designing and Draughting," by Abram Crocker Nye, instructor in furniture designing, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., giving notes on the elementary forms, methods of construction and dimensions of common articles of furniture. The book is well illustrated.

D. APPLETON & Co. are to publish "The Private Life of the Prince of Wales," by a member of the royal entourage. The volume, it is said, will contain an intimate picture of the daily life of the heir to the British throne, his personal interests and amusements. It is also said that the picture presented does not represent the prince as a saint, but gives a sympathetic and attractive idea of his personality.

WHITTET & SHEPPERSON, Richmond, Va., have brought out "The Cradle of the Republic," by President Tyler of William and Mary College, a small volume into which he has considered the principal facts connected with Jamestown and the James River; from the landing of the first colonists in 1607 to the removal of the seat of government ninety years later. An interesting chapter is devoted to the origin and history of noteworthy places along the river.

A NEW volume of short stories from the pen of Frank R. Stockton is being prepared for early publication by Charles Scribner's Sons. It will be entitled "Afield and Afloat," and will be the first volume of brief fiction that Mr. Stockton has published since "A Story Teller's Pack," issued about three years ago. It will contain a selection from the stories written during this time and will make a full and varied volume in the author's perhaps most popular field.

ELDER & SHEPARD call attention to their "Impression Leaflets," interestingly printed, with original capitals in three colors, suitable for book-markers or for framing. Six of these are now ready, including 1, Extract from the Christmas sermon of Robert Louis Stevenson; 2, My symphony, by W. Henry Channing; 3, The worldly wisdom of Noureddin Ali (from the "Arabian Nights"); 4, Emily Dickinson; 5, Impressions of an optimist, by Regina E. Wilson; 6, A simply good life, from E. Howard Grigg's "The New Humanism."

DREXEL BIDDLE, Philadelphia, announces that another edition of "Ouida," by the Countess de Chavannes is in course of preparation. This latest edition, which will contain an entirely new set of illustrations, has been made necessary by the large demand for the book, 27,000 copies of it having already been sold. The author has had numerous applications for the privilege of dramatizing "Ouida," and has finally decided upon a well-known dramatist, who has just begun work upon the play. Mr. Daniel Frohman has written the Countess asking for the first refusal of the play in the fall.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have acquired the publication rights of a remarkable book which claims Abraham Lincoln as its author. It is a small scrap-book compiled by Lincoln for use in the political campaign of 1858, and it contains, so Lincoln writes in it, "the substance of all I have ever said about negro equality," with explanatory notes and a long letter in Lincoln's handwriting. One of Lincoln's supporters, Capt. Brown, was also a candidate for political honors, and it was to him that Lincoln gave this little book. Capt. Brown used the book in 1858 and 1860 and on his death it passed to his sons, with whom its present publication has been arranged.

THE BUREAU OF FOREIGN COMMERCE, Department of State, has published through the Government Printing Office, at Washington, a report on "Book Cloth in Foreign Countries." Consuls in thirty-five countries in Europe, South America, the West Indies, Canada, Asia, and Australasia supply statistics of the quantities of book cloth consumed and manufactured or imported. From these reports it would seem that there is a large field for the book cloths manufactured in the United States. The report forms Document No. 731, House of Representatives, 56th Congress, 1st Session, and is one of the Special Consular Reports, copies of which are easily obtainable by those interested.

AN International Congress of publishers will be held at Leipzig, from 9th to 12th June, 1901, such having taken place already in Paris, 1896, in Brussels, 1897, and in London, 1899. For the reception of several hundred publishers of all civilized nations, Leipzig, the metropolis of German, Austrian and Swiss Book-Trade, is making preparations. In seven sessions the Congress will discuss the rights and interests of authors and publishers as well as technical questions of Book-, Art- and Music-Trade to be settled from an international point of view. As President, Mr. Albert Brockhaus, Leipzig; as foreign Honorary Presidents, Messrs. Fouret and Hachette, Paris; Bruylant, Brussels; and John Murray, London, have been chosen.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have ready "The Jeffersonian Encyclopedia," edited by John P. Foley, which includes nearly ten thousand extracts from the writings of Thomas Jefferson on important topics of permanent interest, each extract being carefully authenticated. They practically include all Jefferson wrote, but now for the first time so arranged that any extract on any subject can be immediately found. Many of these extracts bear on live questions in the present presidential campaign, and very many of these quotations have not been brought out as yet in the present controversies. They include Jefferson's most important utterances on timely topics as banks; paper and coin issues; corporations; expansion; colonial government; centralization, etc.

erature of the Ancient Hebrews"; a popular edition of Thomas Bailey Aldrich's works; Frank M. Bennett's "The Monitor and the Navy Under Steam"; Dr. Amory H. Bradford's "Age of Faith"; Mrs. Elizabeth Barrett Browning's complete poetical works in the Cambridge edition; John Burroughs's "Squirrels and Other Fur Bearers"; Rev. John W. Chadwick's "Life of Theodore Parker"; Charles W. Chesnutt's new novel, "The House Behind the Cedars"; Col. Thomas Wentworth Higginson's collected works in seven volumes; a holiday edition of Henry James's "Little Tour in France"; Dr. Joseph Jastrow's "Fact and Fable in Psychology"; and J. N. Larned's "School History of England."

JOHN LANE, New York City, is the exclusive agent in the United States for the Vale Press of England. The books, appealing to lovers of good taste and sound workmanship in bookmaking are issued in editions limited to about 210 copies, and very soon become of great value. Only seven more subscriptions can be received for the Vale Press "Shakespeare" of which four volumes are now ready: "Hamlet"; "Othello"; "Antony and Cleopatra"; and "King Lear." The original price has already been advanced from $6 to $8. They have just issued "All about Dogs," "a book for doggy people," by Charles Henry Lane, breeder, exhibitor, and judge, with 87 illustrations of the most celebrated champions of the time, drawn by R. H. Moore, a book calculated to gladden the heart of dog-lovers, which will make a specially desirable holiday gift to a friend that loves the animal most closely associated with man.

LEE & SHEPARD have now ready their new books for the holiday season. "Heaven's Distant Lamps" is a pretty volume in white, blue, and gold, arranged by Anna E. Mack from poems of comfort and hope by all the standard poets and dedicated to all the sad and weary; and "Myths and Fables of To-Day," by Samuel Adams Drake. Their preparations for young people include "Almost as Good as a Boy," by Amanda M. Douglas; "True to Himself," by Edward Stratemeyer in the Ship and Shore Series; "Aguinaldo's Hostage," by H. Irving Hancock; "The Houseboat on the St. Lawrence," by Everett T. Tomlinson; "Jimmy, Lucy, and All," by Sophie May; "The Little Dreamer's Adventure: Anna Domino's Calendar," by Frank S. Child; "Two Little Street Singers," by N. A. M. Roe; "Boy Donald," by Penn Shirley; "Randy's Summer," by Amy Brooks; and "Rival Boy Sportsmen," by W. Gordon Parker.

THE City Club, of New York, has issued for private circulation two pamphlets bearing upon the New York City charter. The first is a calendar giving the time fixed by the charter at or within which the municipal officers are to perform certain duties, etc. The calendar was designed to be the feature of a little book planned as a compact presentation of the framework and the operation of the City Government. The club, having decided to withhold the projected volume until the revision of the charter is completed, has issued this fragment in the belief that it will be of service in connection with the revision. The duties to be performed by the municipal officers at certain times are here stated so plainly that it becomes easy to inquire as to how these duties have been performed. The second of the two publications is a general index to the charter, with a table of amendments. Through its use it is possible to find all the provisions of the charter as to any subject in the list.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has in preparation the following: "Essays, Practical and Doctrinal," by Rev. S. D. McConnell; "The Problem of Final Destiny in the Light of Revised Theological Statement," by Rev. William B. Brown; "Parables for Our Own Times, a Study of Present-day Questions in the Light of Christ's Illustrations," by Walcott Calkins, D.D.; "The Church, Past and Present," a review of its history, by Rev. H. M. Gwatkin; "The Four Evangelists Illustrated in Classic Art," edited by Rachel A. LaFontaine; "The Modern American Bible," being a republication of the books of the Bible in modern American form and phrase, with notes and introductions, by Frank S. Ballentine, two volumes of which will be ready October 1, followed by a volume a month until completed; "The Things that Remain," by Randolph H. McKim, D.D., of Washington, D. C.; "The Madonna in Art Calendar for 1901," containing six half-tone reproductions of the old masters; "Words for the Church," by Edgar G. Murphy, D.D., of Montgomery, Ala.; "A Noble Aim, or, Day Dreams in Earnest," by Charlotte M. Yonge; "The Grim House, a story," by Mrs. Molesworth; "Two Boys and a Fire," by Edward A. Rand; also, "Stories from English History," by Mrs. Boaz.

At the request of the National Education Association, the Modern Language Association of America appointed a Committee of Twelve, two years and a half ago, to carefully consider and report upon the work in French and German in the schools, and advise toward securing greater uniformity and efficiency. The Committee, after corresponding with numerous schools in different sections of the United States, finally presented a Report, which was unanimously adopted by the Modern Language Association of America and the Central Branch. This Report discusses in a scientific and impartial way, the aims and various methods of teaching French and German, and then offers expert general advice, laying out a four years' course in each, indicating the work which should be done in each year, and suggesting texts suitable for use. The Report has been characterized as "the most important document ever issued on the subject of modern language teaching." In order to make it as widely as possible available for teachers of French and German, D. C. Heath & Co., Boston, have issued it with an introduction by Professor Calvin Thomas, of Columbia University, Chairman of the Committee, and will furnish it to teachers at a merely nominal cost.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents a line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office should either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

For 1900 (Twenty-Eighth Year.)

Large 8vo. - - With Duplex Index. - - Price $2, net.

"The Publishers' Trade List Annual" for 1900 will contain:

The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names and smaller lists at the end of the volume.

These Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction, we are now applying it to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

Remittances should be made by Check, Money Order on New York, or Registered Letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

 Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be despatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for $1.20 per copy extra.

CHINA'S OPEN DOOR.

An Historical Sketch of China and Her People.

By U. S. CONSUL-GENERAL WILDMAN of Hong Kong.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY

Hon. CHARLES DENBY, former U. S. Minister to China.

Col. Denby Says:

"It is clear, concise in language, easy to understand, and opens up vistas of information which until now have been unknown to the general reader.

"Ancestral worship, the fundamental principle of Chinese policy, is well and forcibly explained. Chinese conservatism, which has held China fixed as the northern star, is thoroughly elucidated.

"He has brought out many new facts and his chronology of events is perfect.

"This book is valuable because it tells you accurately with dates, things you know and many things that you do not know.

"His chapter on commerce is worth the price of the book."
